

New Hunt Museum Corporate Membership

Press Release

Thursday 14th of March saw the launch of a new Corporate Membership package by the Hunt Museum to support the Hunt Museum Strategy 2025 published 6 weeks ago.

Over the coming months several opportunities for collaboration and support will be unveiled but last night was about the Corporate Membership Packages on offer. Co-created with the Limerick Chamber of Commerce Marketing Collective the packages are, according to Orlagh Cassidy of the Collective and Castle Cabin:

“A real opportunity to give staff and families in your companies the perk of free year long membership of the museum as well as providing a space for the entertainment of guests or strategising for the company in inspiring surroundings. And, of course, are a great way of supporting this treasure trove of a museum.”

Heads of Corporations from Limerick City and Region attended the launch to hear how they could directly support the museum. John Moran, Chair of the Hunt Museum, opening the event gave a visionary overview of the importance of our cultural heritage to the region and city and the role that the Hunt Museum has played and will continue to play with the raising of funds to support the ambitious plans.

Jill Cousins, Director & CEO of the Hunt Museum, speaking about the relationship with Strategy 2025 said:

“We are looking to create social, economic and innovation impact over the next 6 years. We want to make lives better and fuller and we want a society that is made more cohesive through active participation in cultural heritage. Our programmes for Education, Dementia, Mental Health and the local hard-to-reach communities create engagement and pride. All the programmes use the museum building, the incredible objects and paintings and techniques of arts, craft, loan boxes, storytelling, stop-motion video and 3D digitisation to name but some. We have a vibrant, edgy and creative museum for Limerick and the world, but to execute our plans we need to work closely and collaboratively with the private sector.”

The many attendees of the event were very inspired by the activities of the museum that they might support but also by the museum itself and its opportunities for entertaining and training as well as the idea of being able to offer their staff a cultural perk.

The Corporate Membership Packages on offer range from unlimited free entrance for all staff and family with use of the lovely Captains' Room for three corporate events to entrance for a more limited number of staff. All the memberships have discounts in the shop, credit to the company on our Patronage Wall and exclusive invitations to exhibition previews, events and drinks receptions.

The Hunt Museum www.huntmuseum.com

The Hunt Museum preserves and exhibits the original artefacts gathered, over a lifetime, by John and Gertrude Hunt. It is one of the greatest private collections in Ireland, with objects dating from the Neolithic Period to the 20th century. Generously donated by John and Gertrude Hunt to the people of Ireland, this diverse collection is now housed in Limerick's 18th Century Palladian style building, formerly The Custom House.

The Museum also displays its own collections, as well as visiting exhibitions of Local, National and International significance with the overall aim of maximising their cultural and educational potential for the people of Limerick and Ireland. It has an extensive education programme covering primary, post-primary, transition year and tertiary education in the region. Working collaboratively with the regions universities, cultural heritage organisations and the local communities the Hunt Museum delivers programmes and activities of benefit to all.
